

Stratejm Launches Managed Cyber Threat Intelligence (MCTI) Platform

TORONTO, ON – May 9, 2017 – Stratejm, creators of Canada’s first Cloud-based Security-as-a-Service (SECaaS) has successfully launched North America’s premier Managed Cyber Threat Intelligence (MCTI) platform. Designed to seamlessly integrate Cyber Threat Intelligence as part of your legacy Security Operations, Stratejm’s MCTI enables the enterprise security team to proactively identify new emerging threats to the business. The integration of Stratejm’s MCTI will also succeed in reducing the time to detect security incidents and data breaches that could otherwise remain undetected for months.

There exists no shortage of commercial-grade and open-source Cyber Threat Intelligence feeds available to the marketplace. These feeds generate large amounts of data that is both raw and unfiltered – resulting in lots of false positives. Threat Intelligence is delivered through a variety of formats and includes millions of new Indicators of Compromise (IoCs) that no security team or firewall can keep pace with. Early adopters of Cyber Threat Intelligence have found themselves being inundated with an insurmountable amount of data with no easy way of separating the good from the bad.

Stratejm’s MCTI succeeds at curating the data to ensure the output is contextual and actionable. We take a proactive approach and enable our customers to view attacks in context, improve the speed and accuracy of detection while simultaneously enhancing the response process.

Stratejm’s MCTI vertically integrates within your existing Security Incident & Event Management (SIEM) platform. The successful integration will augment and enhance your SIEM’s core functions by providing only actionable intelligence. Stratejm’s state-of-the-art Cyber Intelligence Centre offers 24/7 monitoring capabilities backed by unrivaled expertise. Don’t waste valuable time trying to sift through terabytes of data trying to uncover useful intelligence – call us today to schedule a live demonstration of Stratejm’s MCTI.

Stratejm is committed to being a leader in the security market and strategic partner to our client organizations. Our continued success depends on our ability to consistently evolve with the ever-changing threat landscape.
